LeBron James is a lot of things, two-time NBA champion, the most influential brand in sports, and, well, he might also be a get out of jail card.

Jason Goudlock, a 39 year old who has spent more than 20 years in prison for felony aggravated assault and robbery, is scheduled for his fifth parole hearing this month. In his parole letter, Goudlock specifically states:

““I am not a career criminal, and I am ready to be released from prison. On the lighter side, I would truly like to witness in person LeBron James’ pursuit of an NBA championship for my beloved hometown.”

We’ll see if this actually works. One thing we do know: everyone in Cleveland wants to be a witness to the King’s return.
